the attorney general have recently been published to the effect that much uneasiness was felt by officers of the signal service and Arctic experts of this city, with re gard to the safety of Lieut. Greely' meteorological station party at Lad Franklin bay. There is danger, it has been said, that the relief expe dition which is now being organize will failed to reach its destination as the relief expedition did last year that Lieut. Greely's party will be forced to retreat unaided down the rugged coast of Grinnells Land next winter, and that this enforced re treat may be as disastrous as that of Lieutenant Commander DeLong through the Lena Delta The follow ing is a review of the situation of the situation of Lieut. Greely's party, as it is understood by those who have given the most careful attention to the subject, and of the measures which are to be taken to insure the safe remotion to disqualify the above named turn of that party to America: Fort Conger, which is the last meteorological station established by Lieut Greely's party in the summer of 1881 is situated on the eastern coast of Grinnell Land and just north of Lady Franklin bay, in about latitude 81 deg. and 40 min. It is further north $11,000. than the winter quarters of any Arc tic expedition which ever followed Smith Sound route, with the exception of the Polaris expedition and the expedition of Sir Lares in 1875. The coast of Grinnel Land south of the meteorological station is extremely wild, desolate and rugged, for a distance of at least three hundred miles. Lieut. Greely's party is, therefore, isolated from any local assistance, and must depend for safety, first, upon its own exertions, and second, upon the co-operation of the relief expeditions from this country. It is more than probable that Antwerp for England. short navigable season, and that the expedition will be stopped at the very gateway of the ice-choked channel which leads up to Lady Franklin bay. In this event the re-lief party will be anded with a readymade house and all the stores at Lifeboat cave, on the eastern side of the sound, opposite Cape Sabine, where they will go into quarters. The steamer will then return to America, leaving Smith's Sound between the time to escape most of the danger of being imprisoned in the ice. If the relief expedition does not succeed in reaching his station this summer, he can retreat next winter to the headquarters of Lieut. Garlington at Lifeboat cove, and live there in safety and comparative comfort until the steamer shall be sent for the comoined party next winter. As early in the fall as practicable Lieut. Garlington will open communication with the Etah Eskimos and organize a dogsled party, with native drivers, to cross Smith's Sound to Cape Sabine, or Cape Hawks, and then proceed northward to the coast of Grinnell Lieut. WASHINGTON, April 16,-P. M Daggett, United States minister resident at Honolulu, has made a full report to the state department with regard to the shipment from there to the United States of Chinese Sugars with a view of securing the advantages of the reciprocity treaty between Sandwichs Islands and this country. He says that during the year 1882 only four vessels arrived at Hono from Chinese ports, and none broug or discharged Chinese sugars; even granting, however, sugars could be imported and reship ped in this way the necessary expenses incidental to this work, viz ighterage on shore, loading and transporting sugars on land from to five miles, mixing and working in with Hawaiian sugars, resacking, reoading and retransporting to shore and lighterage to vessel, would be in excess of evaded duties. Under all eircumstances, therefore, Mr. Daggett is firmly of the belief that Chinese sugars have not been in the past nor now brought to the ounding Hawaiian Islands and reshipped United States as the to the product of Hawaiian plantations, and
